

instructions continued

3. if you are using your cutouts as a template, trace the shapes onto the paper you intend to use for your crown and cut them out again.

4. decorate your crown. you can use some of the items on this page or draw your own. you can write on your crown, paste photos from your favorite fandoms onto it, or draw elaborate patterns. the use of a rhinestone affixing device would not be inappropriate, though if you go this route, be sure to start with heavy paper.

5. once your crown is decorated to your satisfaction, glue, tape, or staple a headband strip to each side of the crown. if, like the person who is writing this, you have an unusually large head and/or big hair, you can cut out an additional strip if needed.

6. place the front of the crown on the front of your head and pull the headbands around to the back. hold on to the spots where the bands meet, as this is where you will glue, staple, or tape the headbands together.

7. glue, staple, or tape the headbands together.

8. place your well-earned crown upon your glorious head.

9. post a photo of yourself wearing your crown to amplification (this part is optional with the understanding that we'd **really** love to see you).
